

Obligatory Declaration of Academic Integrity

Note: If in a written assignment you adopt or translate texts or portions of text from other sources (books, journals, the internet, etc.), whether verbatim or paraphrased, without clearly marking it as a borrowing and indicating the source (including quotation marks or indentation for direct quotations; the bibliographic identification of the source in every case), this is a case of plagiarism and must be avoided! Borrowed pieces of text, even if only sentences or parts of sentences are in question, must be marked as described above and directly followed by an indication of the source. Specifying the source, for instance, only at the end of a paragraph that also contains original text or parts of other sources, does not suffice. Likewise, literal or rough transmissions of sources from a different language must also be marked as per the above rules. If these principles of good academic practice are intentionally not observed, the assignment will generally be considered a cheating attempt.

Declaration

I, _____ (name), _____ (student ID number), hereby declare that I have written the following paper with the title: _____

_____ in the course: _____, taught by _____ (instructor), independently and have used no other materials than those sources indicated. All passages in the paper in which words or ideas are taken from other sources have been marked as borrowings in each individual case by indicating the source (including the world-wide web and other electronic texts and databases) and in the case of verbatim quotations by means of quotation marks (or by indenting longer direct quotations). This also applies to drawings, visual representations, diagrams, etc. Further, I assert that this paper has not been submitted in fulfillment of course requirements for another course.

I understand that:

- Plagiarized assignments submitted in fulfillment of either exam or study requirements (Prüfungs- und Studienleistungen) will not be accepted and will receive no ECTS-credits and a failing grade (“nicht ausreichend (5,0)”).
- Cases of plagiarism will be brought before the examination committee (Prüfungsausschuss) of the Literature Department.
- In especially serious or repeated cases the examination committee can decide that the student will lose the right to repeat the exam, resulting in a final expulsion from the degree program.
- The legal basis for this policy can be found in § 8, section 3 of the study and exam regulations (Studien- und Prüfungsordnung) for BA-degree programs for subjects in the humanities, in § 12, section 3 of the study and exam regulations for the MA-degree programs for subjects in the humanities, in § 17 of the examination regulations for teacher-training (Wissenschaftliche Prüfungsordnung für das Lehramt and Gymnasien), in § 8, section 3 of the study and exam regulations for teacher training according to GymPO-I, in § 9, section 3 of the study and exam regulations of the Bachelor of Education degree programs, and in § 10, section 3 of the study and exam regulations for the Master of Education degree programs.
